

Alessandra Petrillo, MD, PGY2

Internal Medicine Residency
Hackensack University Medical Center

Alessandra Petrillo is a New Jersey native who graduated cum laude from St. George's University Medical School in 2019. She is currently a second-year internal medicine resident at Hackensack University Medical Center (HUMC) in Hackensack, New Jersey.

She is currently involved in the graduate medical education board of Hackensack Meridian Hospital and is involved in initiating the resident research committee for the internal medicine department at HUMC. She intends on pursuing a hematology and oncology fellowship in 2022. Her interests include hematological malignancies, immunotherapy, and CAR-T cell therapy.