

Capecomorin Pitchumoni, MD

Emeritus Professor of Medicine

Saint Peter's University Hospital

Dr. Pitchumoni is a professor at Rutgers University School of Medicine and an adjunct professor of medicine at New York Medical College. He is program director of the Saint Peter's Gastroenterology Fellowship Program of Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School. He is a senior gastroenterologist with more than 40 years of clinical and research experience in a wide array of areas of gastroenterology, nutrition, and liver disease. He is internationally known and respected for his contributions to the body of knowledge, particularly in pancreatic diseases. As an editor of 7 books in the field of Gastroenterology, including the most recent one, "The Text Book Of Geriatric Gastroenterology." he is well respected as a teacher with a vast knowledge base. He has been honored by the American College of Gastroenterology and the American College of Physicians with the coveted Mastership of the colleges. He is a Fellow of both the Royal College of Physicians of Canada and Edinburgh